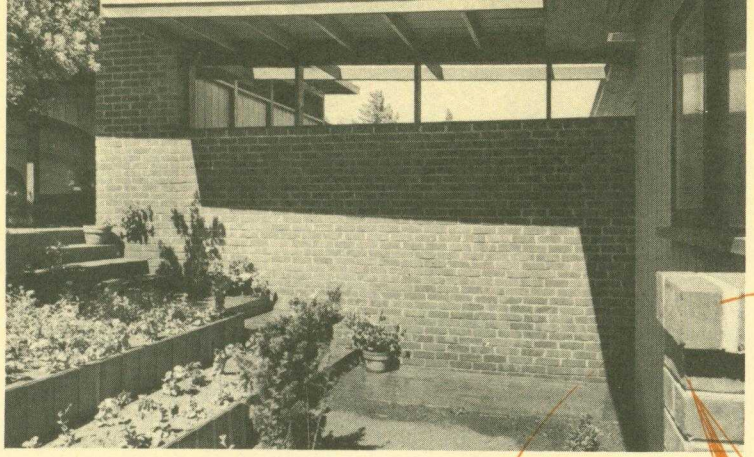
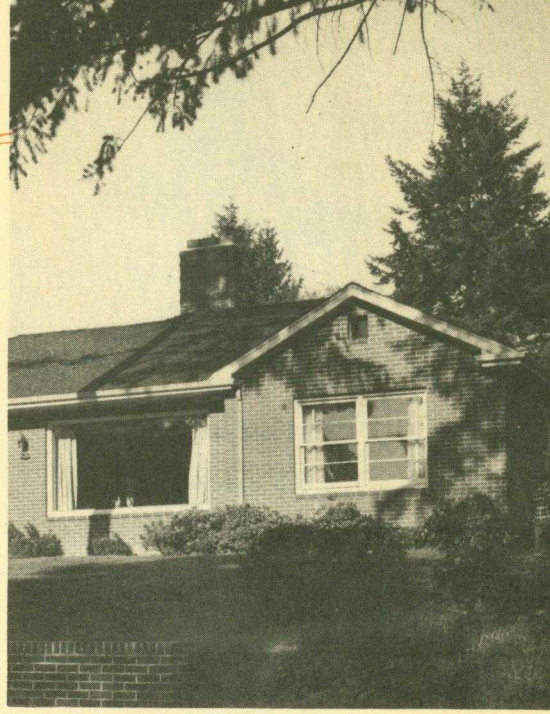
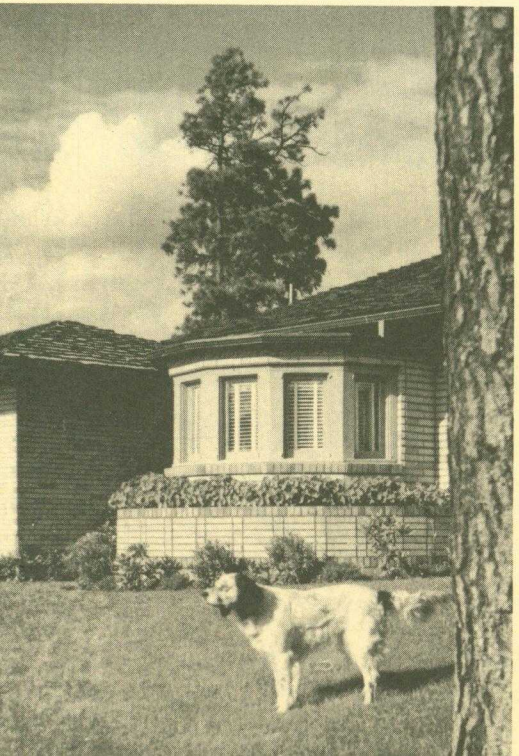
Design for living...

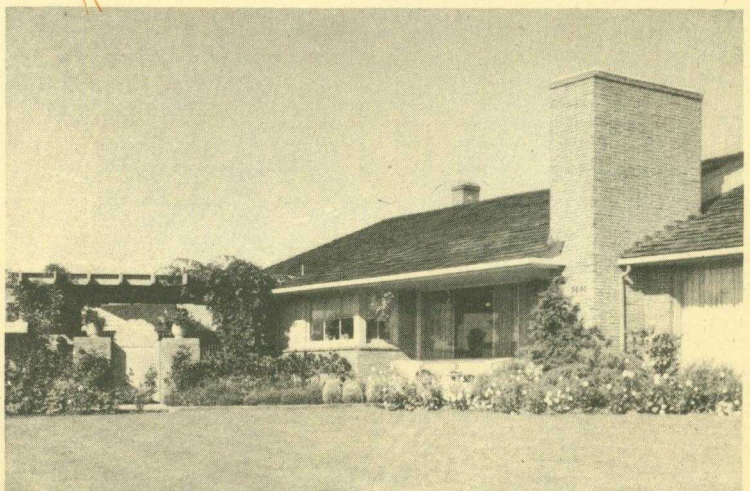
The modern home is really a machine designed for living. By giving a little extra thought to the routine demands of everyday living you can greatly increase the livability of your modern brick home. To assure maximum satisfaction, the plan selected should, as near as possible, meet your family's space requirements, mode of living, hobbies and recreational habits. In any design brick will add both charm and beauty plus a note of distinction to your home.

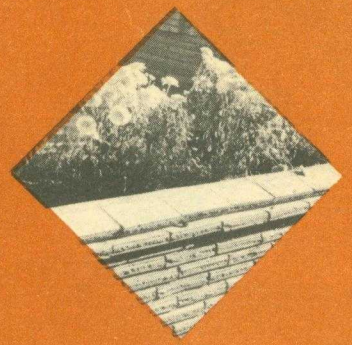


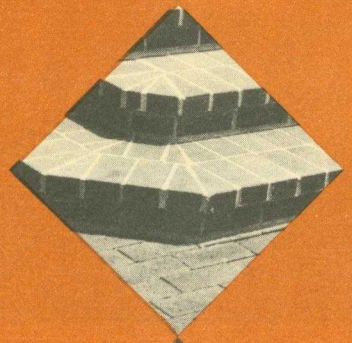


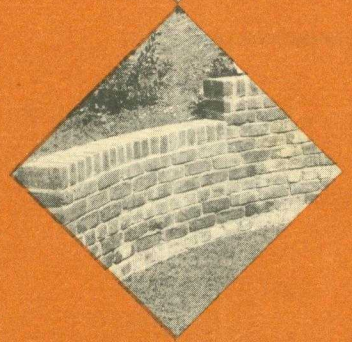


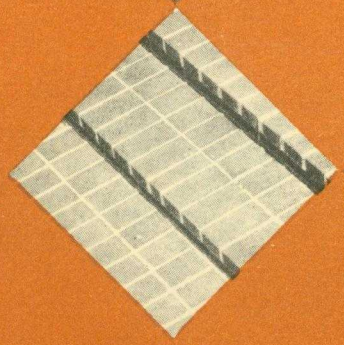
In any season or locale the natural beauty of brick blends with the native setting.

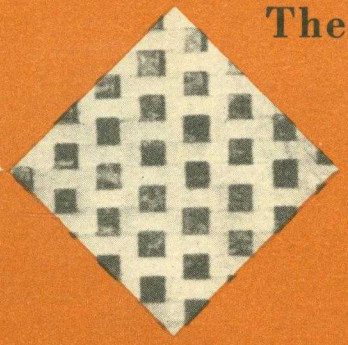


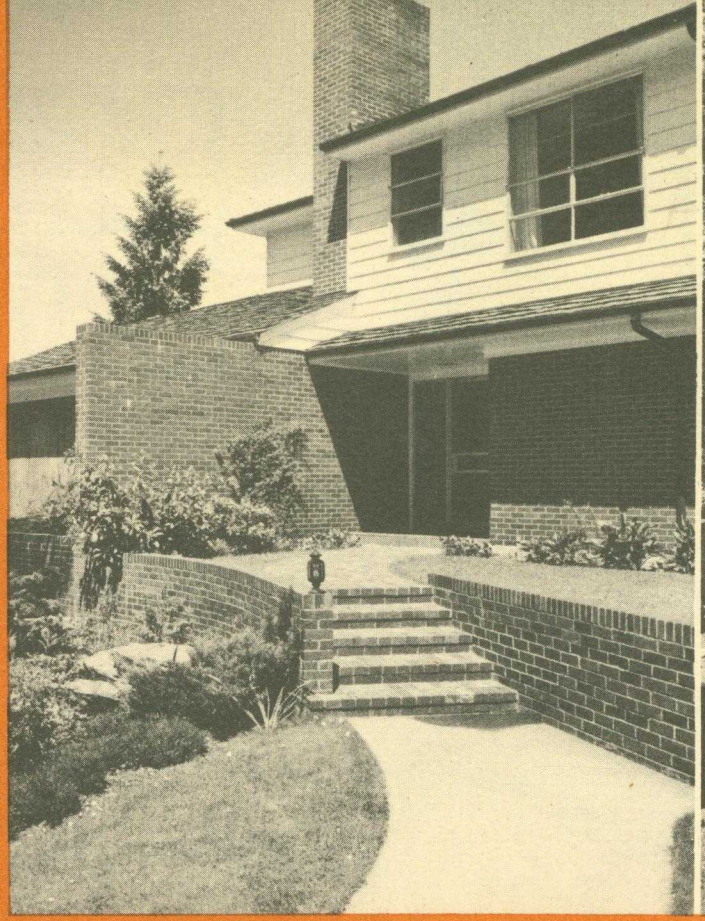


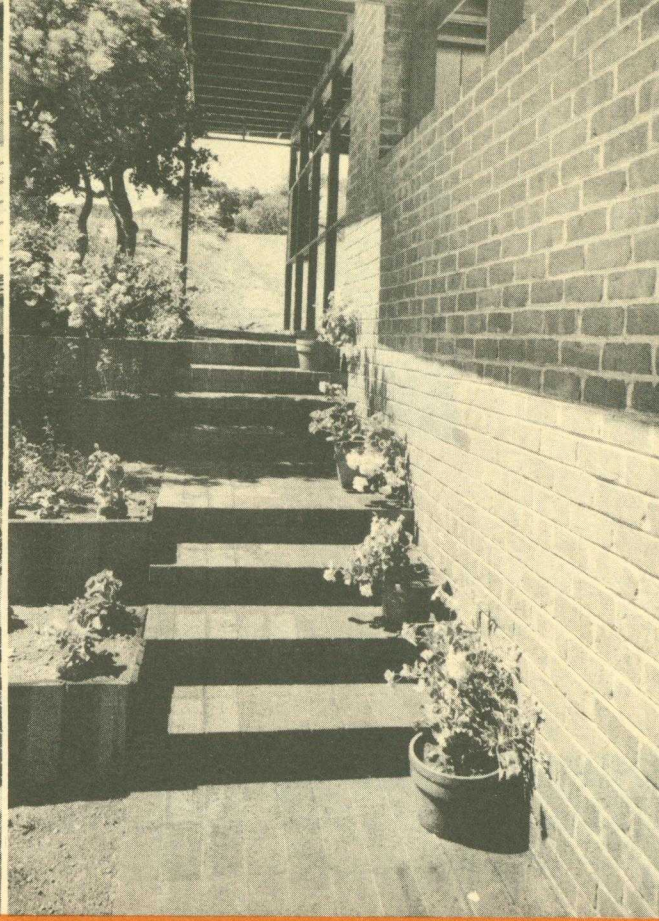






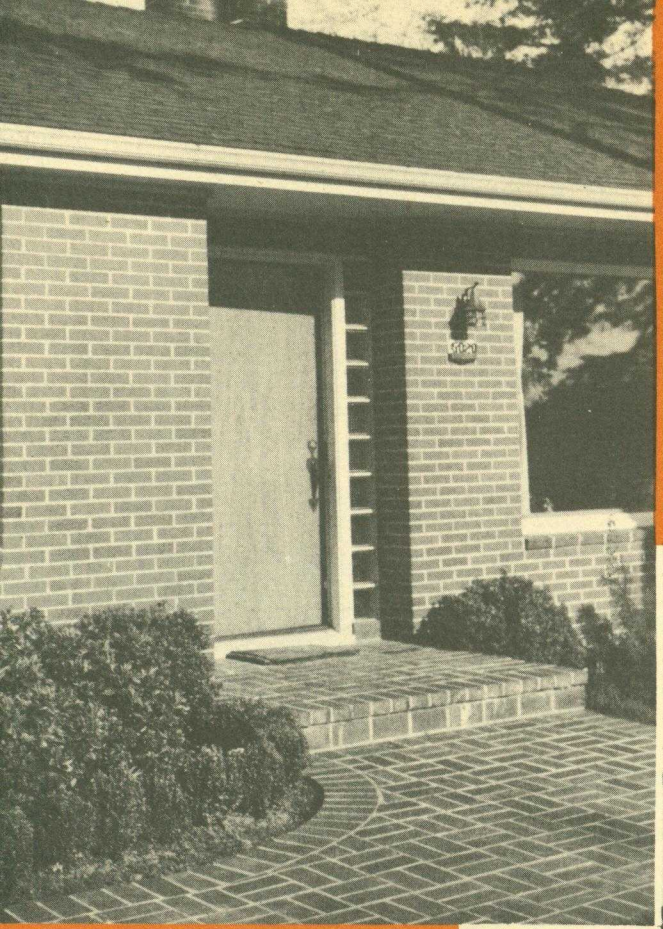


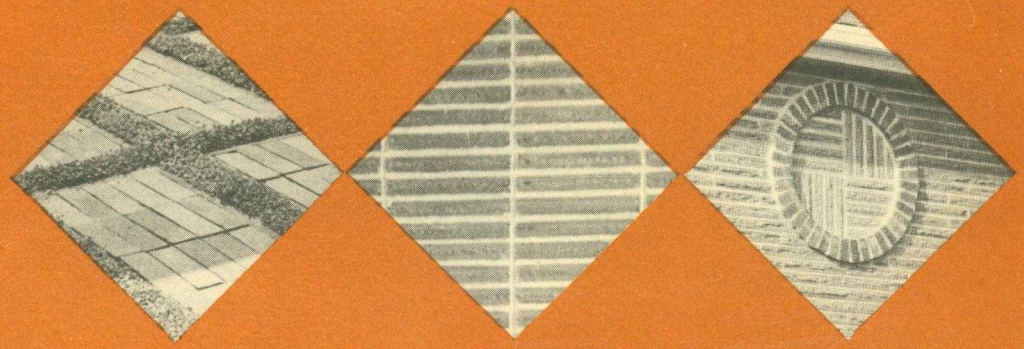




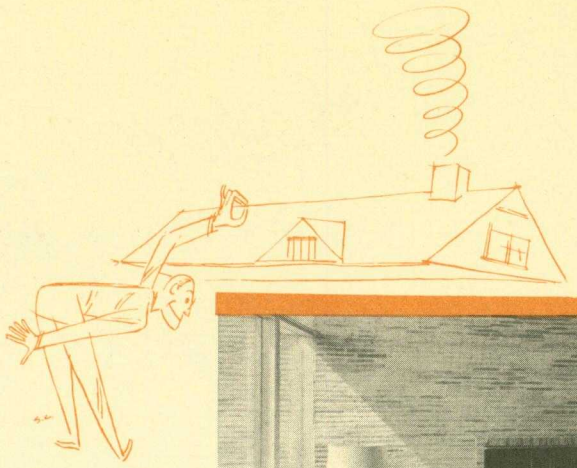
The flexibility of brick

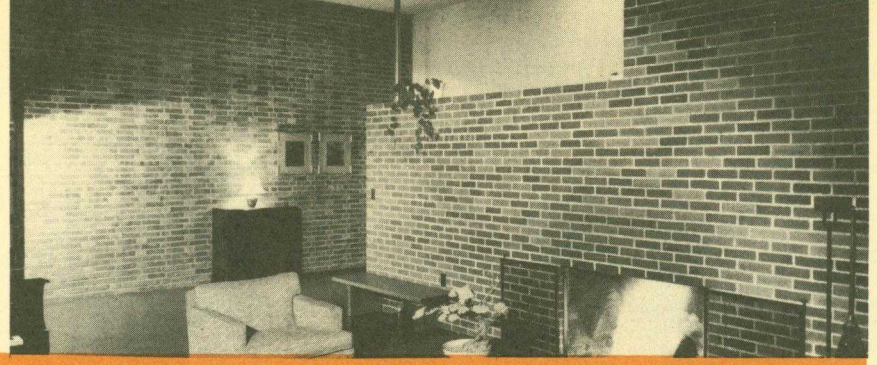
The combination of color, texture and pattern in brick work offers an unlimited flexibility of design. The multiple uses of attractive brick enable you to express your personality throughout your home.

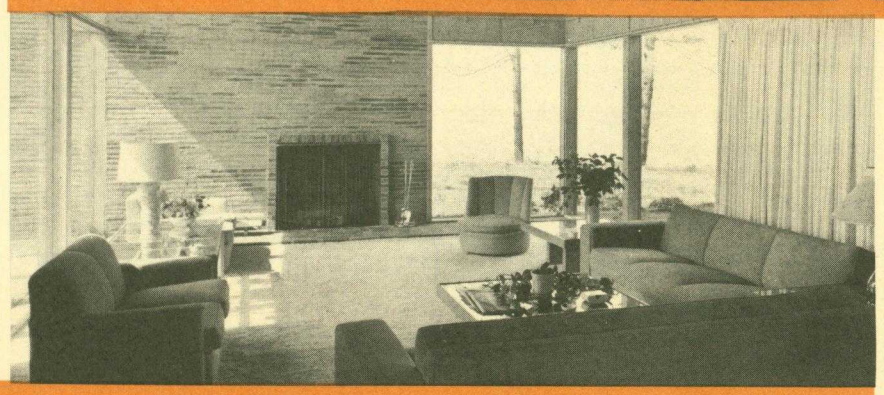


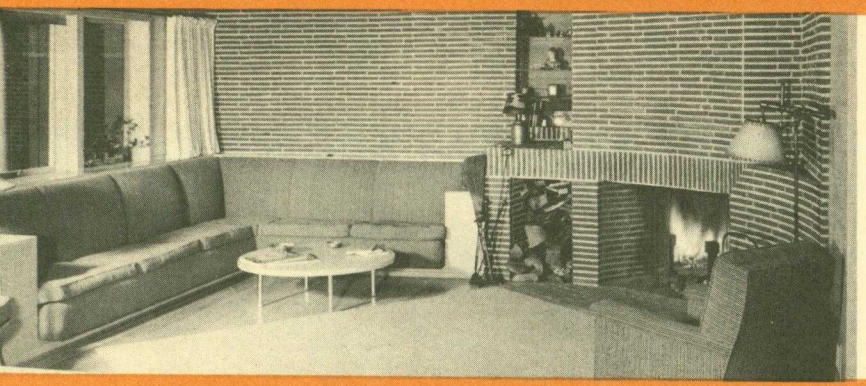


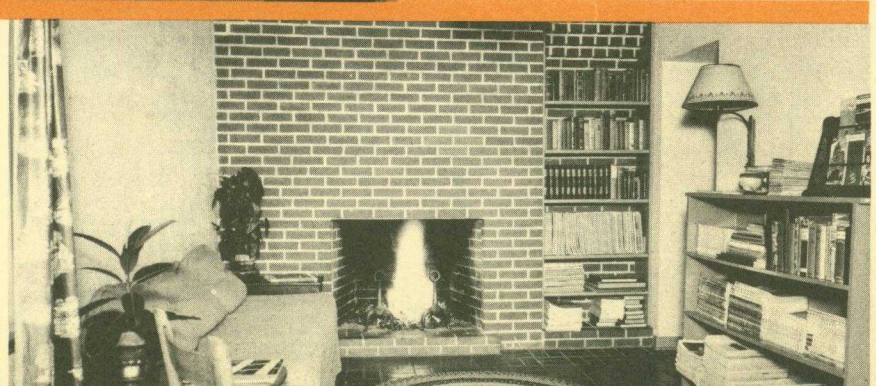
Interiors





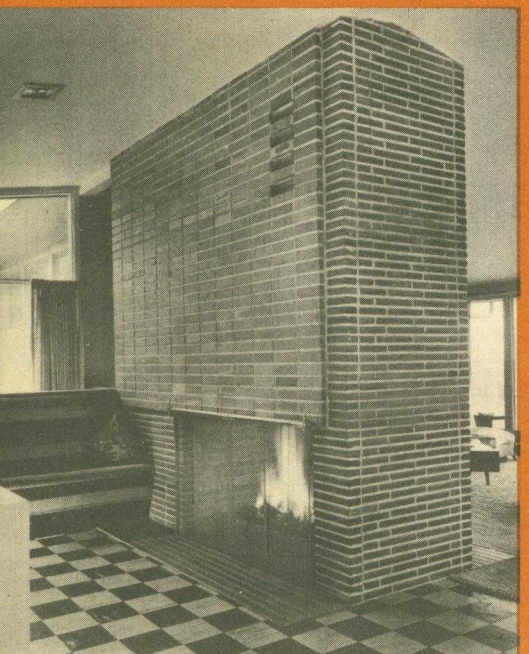


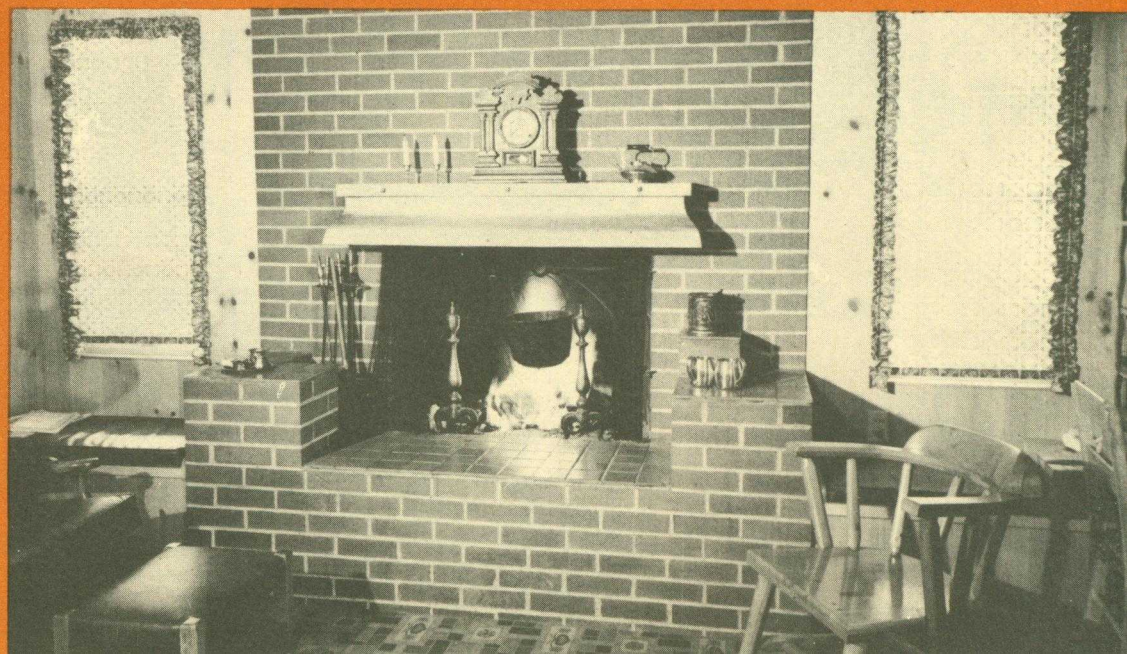


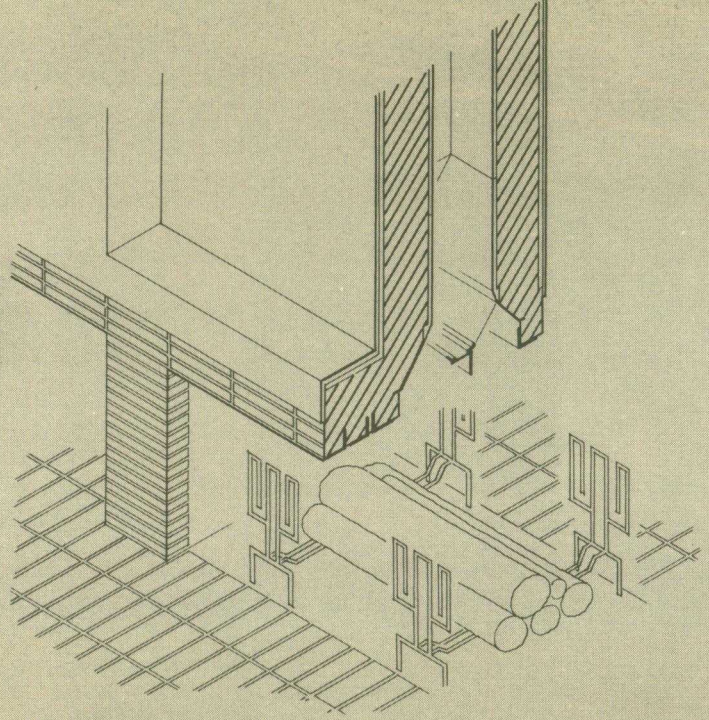


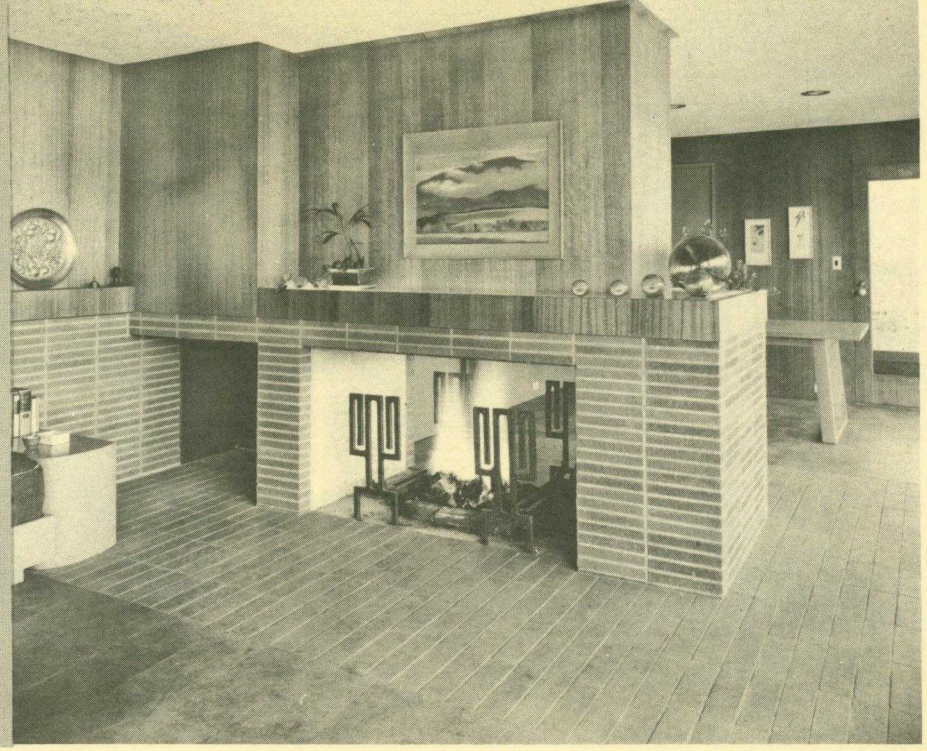
Whether you plan a room to be severe-modern, conventional, or stylized period, an exposed interior brick wall naturally blends with your decorative pattern. From the many inviting warm colors and varied surface textures brick offers, you will find that just-right something to meet your most discriminating taste. As usual, brick gives you an extra easy-on-the-budget value. Because exposed interior brick walls are used "as is" you save decorating costs and you are free forever from periodic interior maintenance costs.

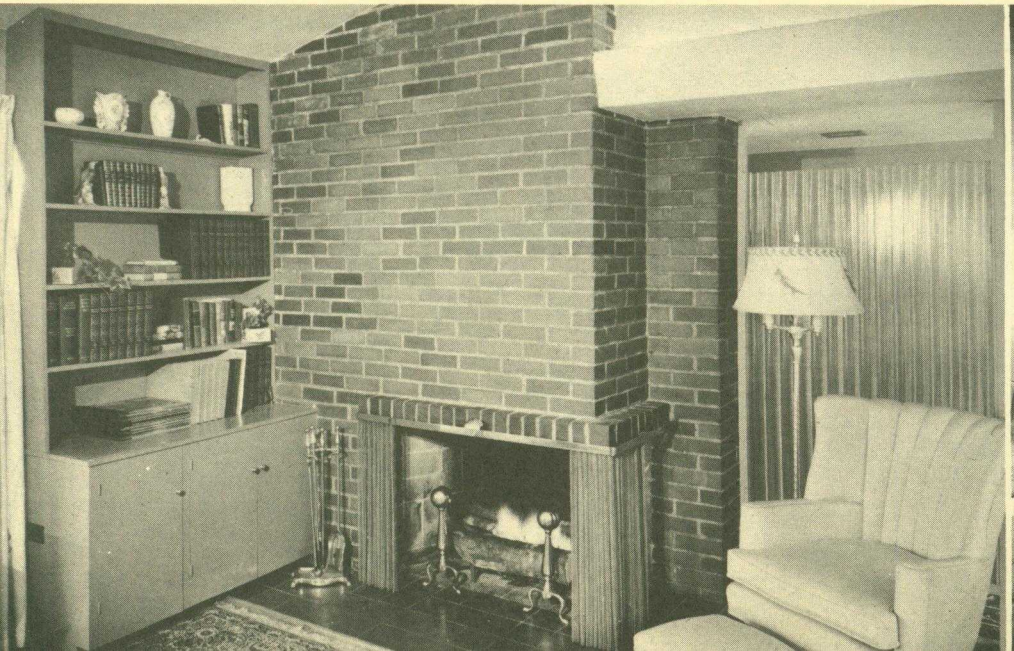
An invitation to hospitality

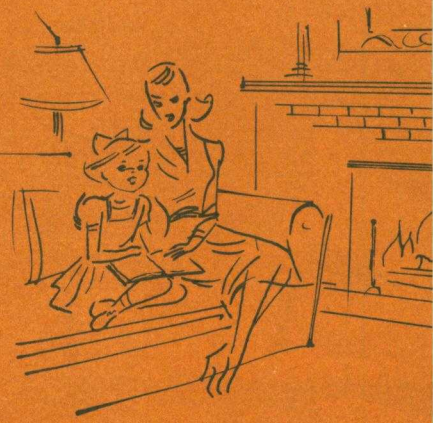


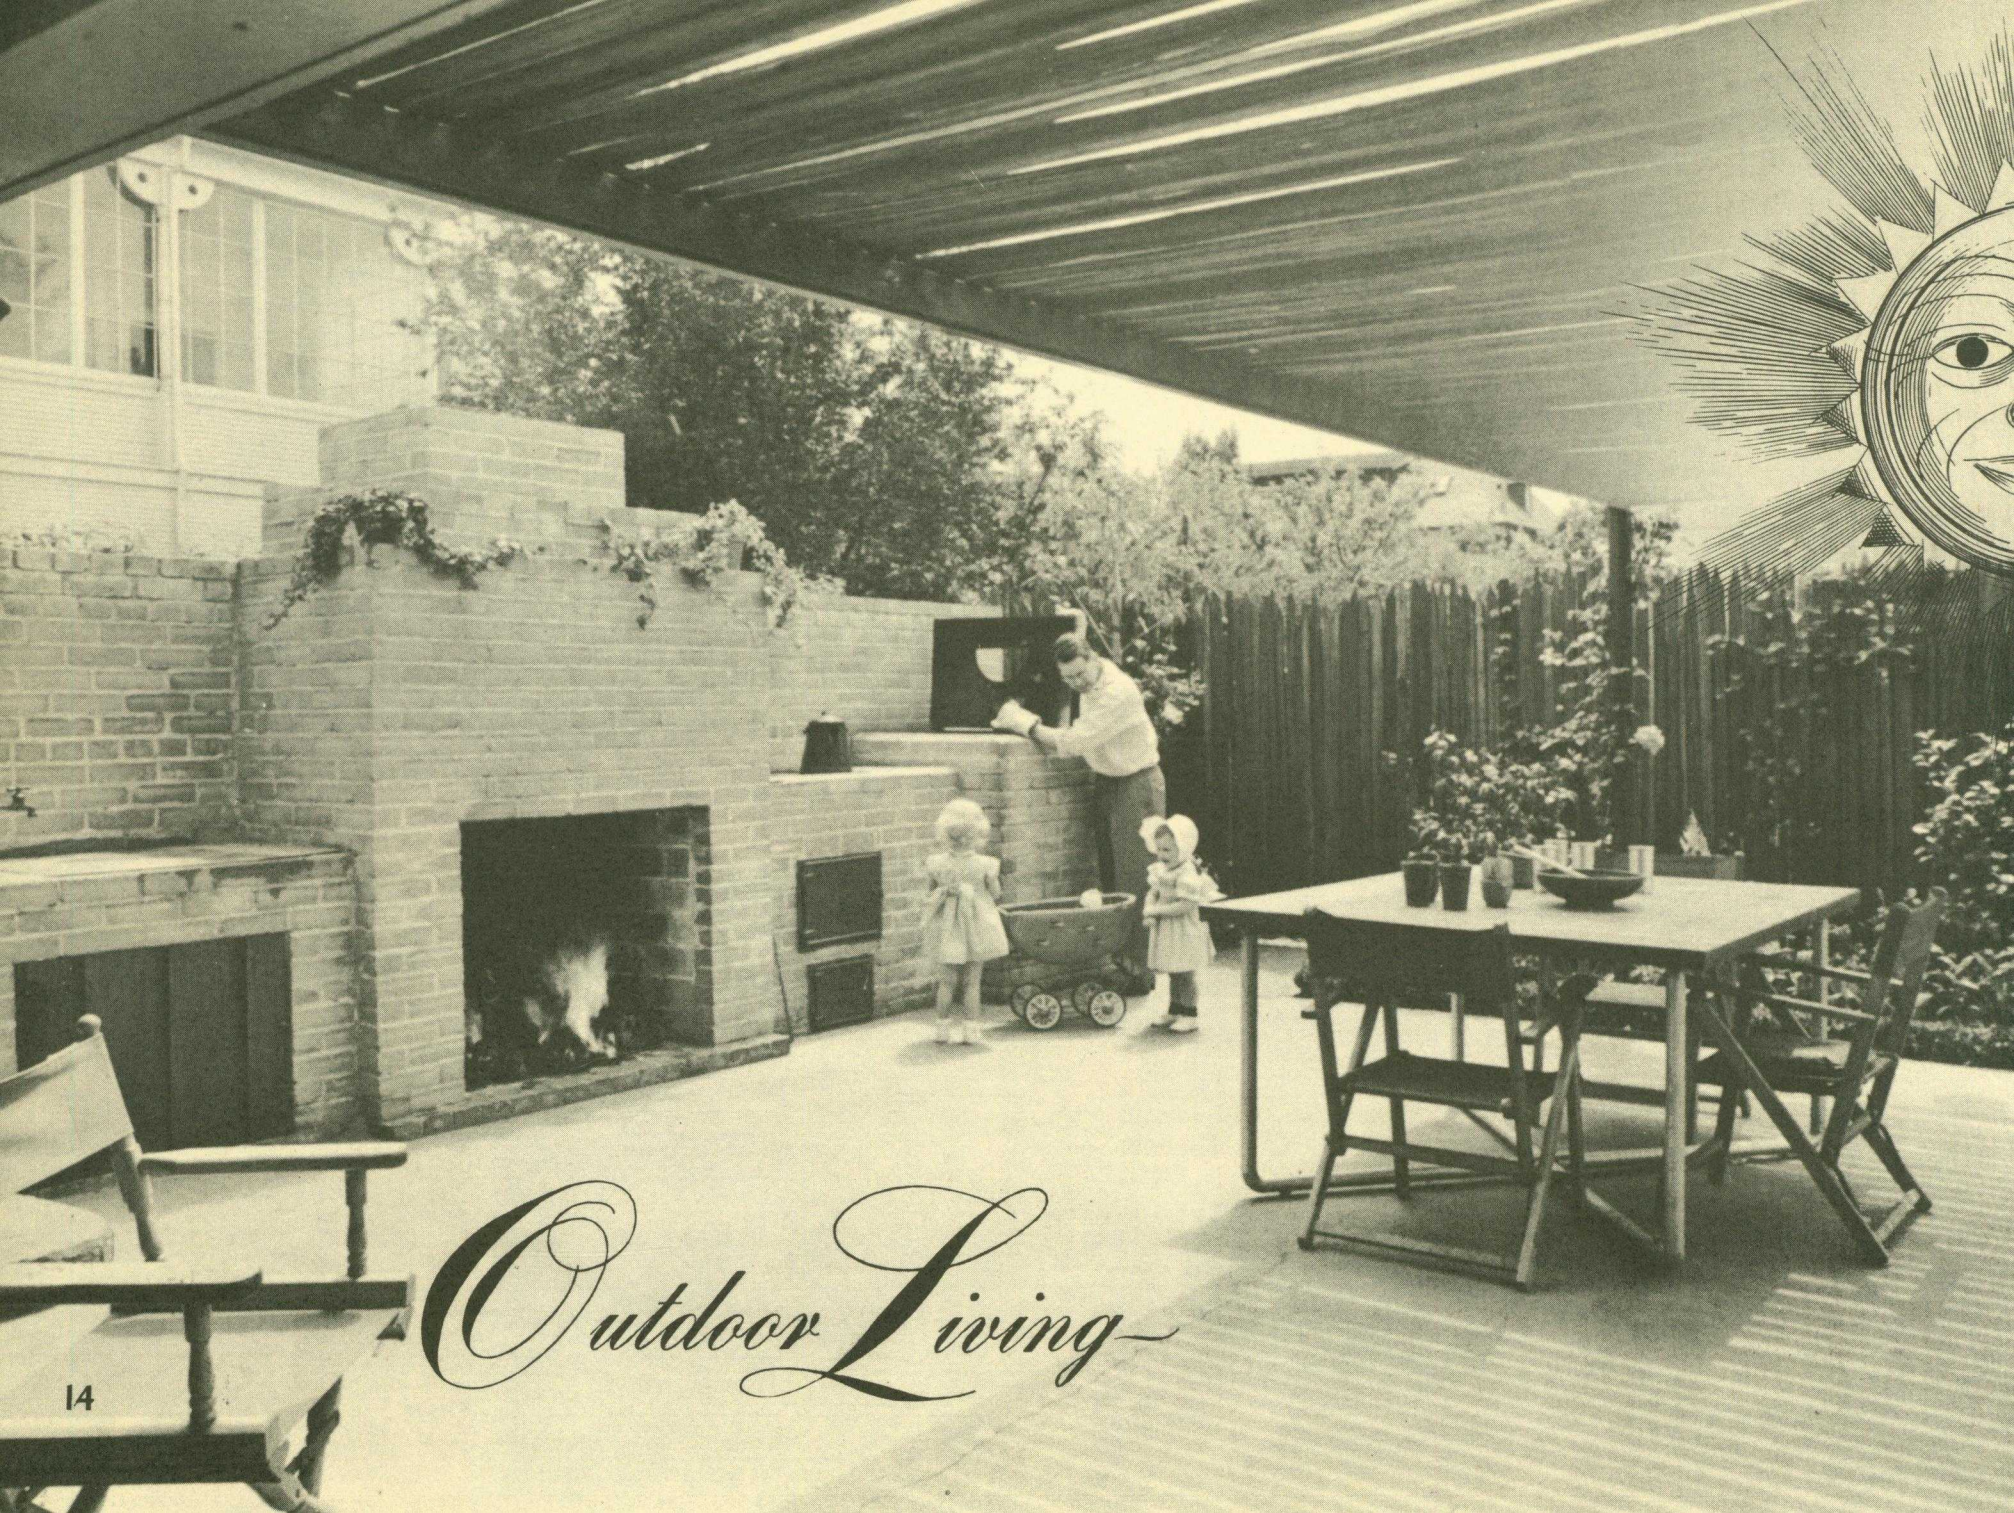












Outdoor Living

The refreshing atmosphere of the great outdoors induces many an American family to create an outdoor living area in their own yard. An inviting brick patio with a cheerful outdoor fireplace, provides a friendly setting for many hours of fun and companionship. Brick with its warm colors and rugged character is a "natural" for barbecues, patios, outdoor fireplaces, walks and garden walls; any one of which will add interest to your outdoor living area.
